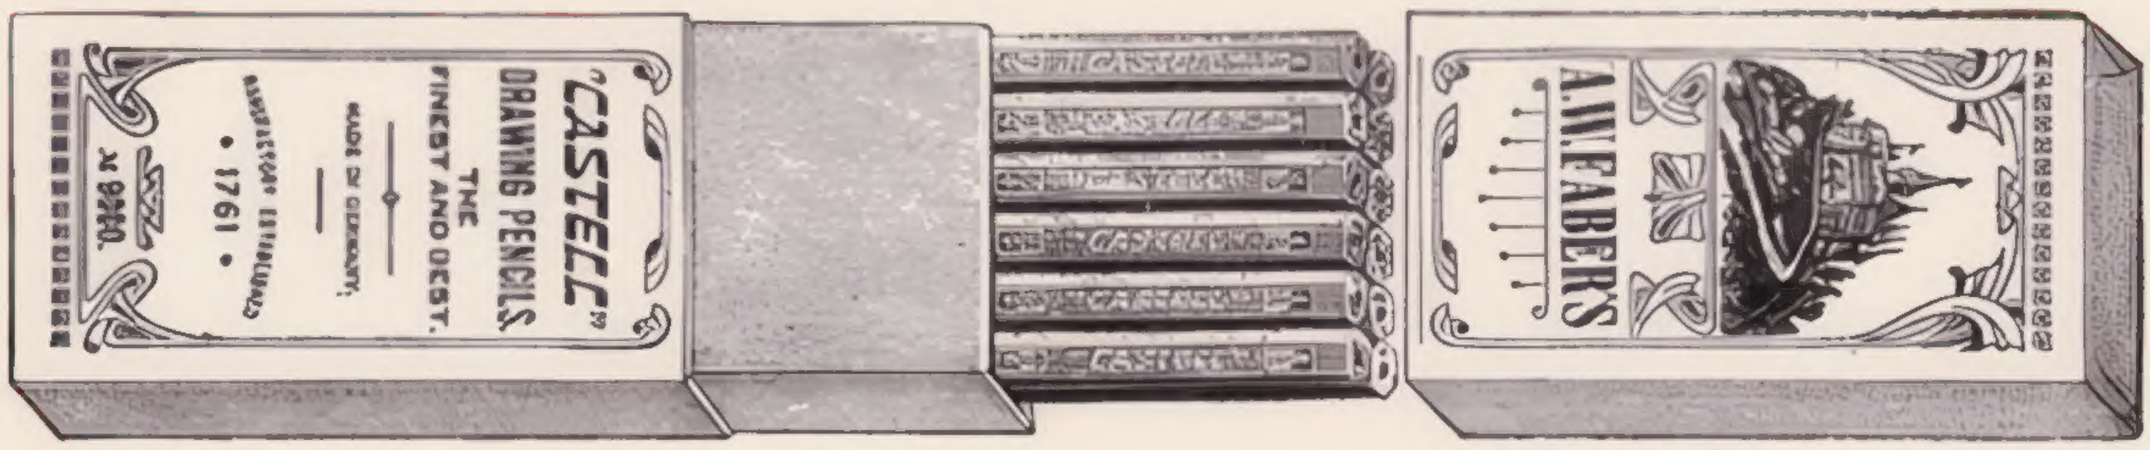
A. W. FABER'S CASTELL PENCILS



No. 3010

The graphite contained in these pencils has been especially purified by a new chemical process, resulting in the production of a lead which for purity, delicacy of tone, uniformity or density of texture, durability or perfect grading, stands unequaled.

They can be sharpened to the finest point, possess great resistance to wear and produce, even in the hardest degrees, black, clearly defined lines.

HARDTMUTH'S KOH-I-NOOR PENCILS

No. 3056

By a new process of manufacture the graphite assumes a highly compressed form, which secures for it remarkable lasting qualities, the pencil point remaining sharp for a surprisingly long time. For the draftsman and others, where the preservation of a fine point is of importance, the Koh-i-noor Pencils and Leads will be found invaluable.
